STRUCK PANEL JURY SELECTION: CIVIL

The Court will conduct a voir dire of the number of panelists computed by combining the number of jurors to be selected and the number of peremptory challenges. In the ordinary civil case with eight jurors, there will be a voir dire of 14 panelists. After the voir dire, we will determine whether there are any challenges for cause. Each panelist removed for cause will be replaced, so that there is a full panel before any peremptory challenges are exercised.

Next, peremptory challenges are exercised simultaneously, with the plaintiff and the defendants each submitting a written list of the three panelists that they wish to excuse. Any overlap among the lists of challenges will not result in parties receiving additional challenges. The eight jurors will be selected starting with the unchallenged juror with lowest number. For example, if there was one overlap, the five challenged panelists would be excused and the first eight of the remaining nine would be seated. The ninth juror, that is, the unchallenged juror with the highest number, would also be excused.
